How to Play

A codeword is a crossword with no clues. Every square holds a number, and every number stands for one letter. The same number is always the same letter, and no two numbers share a letter.

A few starter letters are filled in for you. Write them in every square with the same number, then look for words you can guess from the letters you have.

Use the key under the grid to keep track of the code, and cross off letters in the alphabet as you use them. Every grid word is a common English word.

Every puzzle has exactly one answer, checked by computer. Answers are at the back.
